Prague European Days of Internal Medicine

18–20 September, 2014

From cardio and gastro, through endocrinology, diabetology to rheumatology, metabolism, oncology, infection diseases, intensive cardiology and much more!

Editorial

Dear colleagues!

Following on the footsteps of the tremendously successful European Congress of Internal Medicine held in Prague in October 2013, we are organizing the Prague European Days of Internal Medicine September 18–20, 2014. More than 3000 participants from 81 countries attended the 2013 event and you are cordially invited to participate in the 2014 event on behalf of the programme committee. We will focus our attention on all major areas of internal medicine including trends in non-pharmacological and pharmacological treatment of internal diseases. We also plan to organize Young Internist Sessions, free communication sessions, as well as satellite symposia; see the enclosed preliminary programme overview. You will have the unique opportunity to learn a wealth of news concerning internal medicine in an incredibly short time.

We feel honoured that several prestigious speakers have already agreed to participate.

We are looking forward to welcoming you to the beautiful city of Prague this September.

Prof. Jiri Widimsky jr M.D, Ph.D
Chair of Programme Committee

Important dates to remember

20 June, 2014
Deadline for submitting abstracts

30 June, 2014
Early registration deadline

Social Evening at the Czech Museum of Music

September 18, 2014
20:00–23:00

The reception will take place at the Czech Museum of Music, one of five collection-forming divisions of the National Museum.

The building that serves today as the headquarters of the Czech Museum of Music has a rich history. The cornerstone of the former Church of St. Mary Magdalene, associated with a Dominican monastery, was laid in 1654. You will not only be able to visit this unique building but also see musical instruments that are examples of both craft and art acting as a fundamental mediator between human beings and music.

Tickets cost 70 € per person.

Have you submitted your abstract?

If not, there is time to share your research. Abstract submission deadline is on Friday June 20, 2014.
